The Chronicle of Ibn al-Athir for The Crusading Period from al-Kamil fi'l-Ta'rikh. Part 1

The Years 491–541/1097–1146: The Coming of the Franks and the Muslim Response

Translated by D.S. Richards, University of Oxford, UK

CRUSADE TEXTS IN TRANSLATION: 13

The Chronicle of Ibn al-Athir (1160–1233AD), entitled “al-Kamil fi'l-Ta'rikh,” is one of the outstanding sources for the history of the medieval world. It covers the whole sweep of Islamic history almost up to the death of its author; events in Iraq, Iran and further East run in counterpoint with those involving North Africa and Spain. From the time of the arrival of the Crusaders in the Levant, their activities and the Muslim response become the focus of the work. This part covers the establishment of the Crusader states and the initial weak and divided response of Muslim regimes in the area.

The Chronicle of Ibn al-Athir for the Crusading Period from al-Kamil fi'l-Ta'rikh. Part 2

The Years 541–589/1146–1193: The Age of Nur al-Din and Saladin

Translated by D.S. Richards, University of Oxford, UK

CRUSADE TEXTS IN TRANSLATION: 15

The years in this part are dominated by the careers of Nur al-Din and Saladin, the champions of the Jihad, sometimes called the ‘counter-crusade’.

The Chronicle of Ibn al-Athir for the Crusading Period from al-Kamil fi'l-Ta'rikh. Part 3

The Years 589–629/1193–1231: The Ayyubids after Saladin and the Mongol Menace

Translated by D.S. Richards, University of Oxford, UK

CRUSADE TEXTS IN TRANSLATION: 17

A focus of this third part is the internal rivalries of Saladin's Ayyubid successors, their changing relations with the Crusader states, the Damietta Crusade, and the first incursions of the Mongols.

The Crusades, The Kingdom of Sicily, and the Mediterranean

James M. Powell, Syracuse University, USA

VARIORUM COLLECTED STUDIES SERIES: CS871

This collection of studies by James Powell focuses on two related centers of attention. The first is the crusade campaigns undertaken by western Europeans in the eastern Mediterranean during the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, the reasons for them, and the manner in which they were organized and promoted. The second is the society, economy and Muslim population of the Kingdom of Sicily under Frederick II, himself a crusader.

The Hospitallers, the Mediterranean and Europe

Festschrift for Anthony Luttrell

Edited by Karl Borchardt, Monumenta Germaniae Historica, Germany, Nikolas Jaspert, Ruhr-Universität Bochum, Germany and Helen J. Nicholson, Cardiff University, UK

Modern study of the Hospitallers, of other military-religious orders and of their activities both in the Mediterranean and in Europe has been deeply influenced by Anthony Luttrell. To mark his 75th birthday in October 2007 twenty-three colleagues from ten different countries have contributed to this volume. The papers include studies on the Hospital in Jerusalem, relations with the Assassins, finances, indulgences, transportation and careers of the brothers and knights. Other studies concern the later Middle Ages, when the Hospitallers had their centre on Rhodes.

Studies on the Hospitallers after 1306

Rhodes and the West

Anthony Luttrell

VARIORUM COLLECTED STUDIES SERIES: CS874

This is the fifth collection of studies on the Hospitallers of Rhodes by Anthony Luttrell to appear in the Variorum Collected Studies Series. The studies emphasize the 14th century, the central Convent facing the Turks and the interactions and interdependence of the Order's European priories and commanderies. Together, they constitute another important body of work on the history of the Hospitallers, touching on their nature as a military-religious order and the historiography, iconography, religiosity and finances of the order.

The Fourth Crusade: Event, Aftermath, and Perceptions

Papers from the Sixth Conference of the Society for the Study of the Crusades and the Latin East Istanbul, Turkey, 25–29 August 2004

Edited by Thomas F. Madden, Saint Louis University, USA

CRUSADES - SUBSIDIA: 2

The Fourth Crusade (1201–1204), launched to restore Jerusalem to Christian control, veered widely off course, finally landing at Constantinople which it conquered and sacked. The effects of the crusade were far-reaching during the Middle Ages and remain powerful even today, which explains the continued vibrancy of its historiography. This volume, based on studies presented at the Sixth Conference of the Society for the Study of the Crusades and the Latin East in Istanbul, Turkey in 2004, represents some of the best new research on this subject. These essays help to place the Fourth Crusade within the larger context of medieval Mediterranean history as well as larger issues such as agency, accommodation, and memory that inform new aspects of modern historiography.

Hospitaller Women in the Middle Ages

Edited by Anthony Luttrell, Independent Scholar and Helen J. Nicholson, Cardiff University, UK

This volume brings together recent and new research, with several items specially translated into English, on the sisters of the largest and most long-lived of the military-religious orders, the Hospital of St John of Jerusalem. It explores the roles which the Hospitaller sisters performed within their Order; examines the problems of having men and women living within the same or adjoining houses; studies relations between the Order and the patrons of its women's houses; and looks at the career of a prominent woman within the Order during the Middle Ages.

Knighthoods of Christ Essays on the History of the Crusades and the Knights Templar, Presented to Malcolm Barber

Edited by Norman Housley, University of Leicester, UK

During the Central Middle Ages Catholics had the opportunity to take part in Holy War in the Latin East in two different but related ways, by taking the Cross and by entering the Order of the Temple. This collection of essays by distinguished historians of the Crusades and the Order of the Temple covers the whole span of their historical evolution and offers numerous insights into the ideologies, practicalities and ramifications of Christian Holy War in the Middle Ages.

The Military Orders, Volume 3 History and Heritage

Edited by Victor Mallia-Milanes, University of Malta, Malta

The thirty papers published here record the proceedings of the Third International Conference on the Military Orders. The principal focus on this occasion was the Hospital of St John, but the Templars, Teutonic Knights and other military orders are dealt with too. Many of the papers relate to provincial life, along with contributions on historiography, the papacy, cultural history, and religious life.

The Military Orders Volume 4 On Land and by Sea

Edited by Judi Upton-Ward, University of Reading, UK

The twenty-seven papers published here represent a selection of those delivered at the Fourth International Conference on the Military Orders in 2005.

Architecture, archaeology and the part which the orders played in Europe are well represented, along with work on northern and eastern Europe. Four papers deal specifically with military or naval matters, while another four deal with the spiritual life of the brothers and sisters. Family relationships represent a growing field of interest.

Robert the Monk's History of the First Crusade Historia Iherosolimitana

Carol Sweetenham

CRUSADE TEXTS IN TRANSLATION: 11

Robert the Monk's chronicle of the First Crusade was one of the most popular such accounts in the Middle Ages. As such it gives an invaluable window onto contemporary perceptions of the crusade, as well as providing new and unique information - and all this in a racy style which on occasion would not disgrace a modern journalist. This is the first translation of the Latin text into English.

The Seventh Crusade, 1244–1254 Sources and Documents

Translated by Peter Jackson, Keele University, UK

CRUSADE TEXTS IN TRANSLATION: 16

The Seventh Crusade, led by King Louis IX of France, was the last major expedition for the recovery of the Holy Land actually to reach the Near East and its failure had wide repercussions both in the West and in Egypt and Palestine. This volume comprises translations of the principal documents and of extracts from narrative sources – both Muslim and Christian – relating to the crusade, and includes many texts, notably the account of Ibn Wasil, not previously available in English.
